Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a water circulating type cooling apparatus to be used in air conditioning of a vehicle, or the like. 2. Description of the Related Art A known type of a vehicle air conditioning apparatus described in Japanese Laid-Open Patent Publication No. 2007-287316 controls the heat exchange between the air to be supplied to the inside of a vehicle and the air to be circulated to improve the thermal efficiency of the air conditioning apparatus. The air conditioning apparatus described in Japanese Laid-Open Patent Publication No. 2007-287316 is configured such that a cooler for cooling the air to be supplied to the inside of the vehicle and a heater for heating the air to be supplied to the inside of the vehicle are disposed in parallel or in series, and an evaporator and a heater are connected to the circuit of the heater for heating the air to be supplied to the inside of the vehicle. In a vehicle air conditioning apparatus that has the above configuration, the evaporator disposed in the refrigerant circuit is controlled by a controller, which causes the air to be supplied to the inside of the vehicle and the air to be circulated to be cooled or heated. The thermal conductivity of refrigerant flows in the air conditioning apparatus during an air-conditioning operation is smaller than that during

There are six points where you can choose from and you're guided along your path, testing everything that you encounter on the way. There are obstacles to overcome, and characters that offer some insight into the state of the world, but the real brilliance comes from the mind-bending puzzles. Which way do you turn the knob? Each path gives you a different room. Some have a window, some have a door. One has nothing. You'll need to figure out which room to go into, and which room to leave. There are four checkpoints along the way, so when things aren't going according to plan, you just hop back to one of those. "The weirdness of the game and its construction relies on the player making those choices. Sure, you can go everywhere at once. Sure, you can run around and look at everything. But that's not how you're meant to play the game," says Ueda, who wants to challenge the player's brain. "You have to anticipate everything, and not be caught off guard." The game was built by the studio behind the original Ueda-directed Grasshopper Manufacture and producer Shinji Mikami. It was created around a core idea that all the player's actions take place in a dream, trying to design a game that would take place in this world, yet feel completely different from the games he's made in the past. "I wanted to make a game that made people feel like they were living in a dream," says Ueda. "In the end, the game is set in a dream world where everything is possible, and you can do anything you want. The difficulty of the game is built on that."
