YEAH YEAH! I am so excited to bring you today's outfit. This was a very random outfit I wore today, I think I was just excited to wear something that doesn't have a pattern in it. I have seen so many cute outfits with patterns on them that I just found myself just wanting to step it up a little and wear something that wasn't too...nothing. I was also inspired by a cutie, a friend of mine, who has the same jacket. She has been wearing this jacket for a while now and I found myself wanting to style something similar for myself. Let me start by saying the outfit I wore is actually a cardigan, but I don't usually wear it as a cardigan so I didn't want to give it that title, it's more of a vest/sweater hybrid. I found it at H&M (someone recommend it to me online) and it is actually called the Pastel Vest. When I saw it I just thought it was super cute and would be perfect for the summer months. I decided to pair the jacket with a plain pair of skinny jeans. I'm not a jeans person, as I just don't care for the fabric on my legs. I also hate the fit of the jeans, or the pockets on them, not really loving how they fit. I decided to pair them with my signature sneakers, I love them so much. When I can't decide what to wear I always grab these because they're super comfortable and will go with anything. This outfit was a complete spur of the moment, I was just happy to wear something that didn't have a pattern in it and I think it turned out really cute! I also want to apologize for the lack of "Me" posts lately. I have been on a little bit of a self induced VLOG hiatus, yup you heard right, I've been taking a VLOG break for the entire month of May. I'm not sure why I was feeling so inspired to take a VLOG break, I feel like a VLOG BREAK is something you do when you feel really inspired and like it. Well I do feel like I'm not that inspired as of right now and the thought of doing one was just not even a thought in my head anymore, so I just kind of let
