* You can use Photoshop to create raster images from all kinds of formats. * All kinds of filters, corrections, and blends are possible. * Using Photoshop, you can edit live video as well. * Photoshop is compatible with almost all image and film formats, plus some video. * Photoshop is very helpful in the design and modification of websites. * It has a very powerful compositing program called Bridge. * It's often used for retouching images in film or print media. * * * ## Getting Started with Photoshop You can use Photoshop in two ways. The first is via Adobe's Integrated Runtime (AIR). This is the standard Adobe technology that runs on all Adobe products and OSes. To use Photoshop via AIR, go to Adobe's website at adobe.com/acrobat/photoshop. From there, you can download the AIR version of the application, choose between the Standard (Win/Mac) and High Sierra (Mac) versions, and download it. The other way to use Photoshop is via the Photoshop Standalone Runtime (Win/Mac). Adobe offers standalone versions of Photoshop and other programs that can be used outside of the Adobe desktop for non-Adobe-related work. The Standard version of Photoshop (CS6 and later) is included in all the Adobe Creative Cloud subscription packages. It's the most powerful Photoshop ever. The only included feature that is not in the Standalone versions is the non-destructive editing. But standalone Photoshop still has most of the same features in the new Creative Cloud features. You can use the Photoshop Standalone Runtime for either Photoshop as well as other applications in your Adobe Creative Cloud. The choice is yours, based on whether you prefer to use Photoshop with the Adobe desktop or off of it. # THE CREATIVE CLOUD The Creative Cloud is a package of tools that enables both beginners and experts to edit, draw, make video, and do much more right from their desktops or anywhere else on their personal computer or on their mobile devices. The Creative Cloud was initially only available to Creative Suite customers. Adobe now offers a free version of the Creative Cloud that enables students, hobbyists, and design teams to create and then use their creations. Adobe's Creative Cloud enables users to customize their desktop in the form of a background, the appearance of menus and window chrome, as well as access to additional fonts.

Madison Mansour, head gymnast at the 2018 Olympic Trials, released a statement on her own social media accounts on Friday indicating that she intends to compete in the 2019 World Championships in Doha, Qatar. The Yale University graduate has spent the last few years focusing her training on the uneven bars, which she will look to make it a medal-winning performance in Doha. With the U.S. already having nabbed the bronze medal at the 2018 World Gymnastics Championships, it seems like it will be pretty much a done deal. According to her statement: "As most of you know by now, I did not make the team for this year's World Championships in Doha and after reflecting on the World Trials, I will be attending the World Championships to compete. While disappointed that I did not make the team this year, I am absolutely and utterly honored to represent our country at the highest level of the sport." Mansour was named the team's alternate in June, but the choice for the alternate had been between two different gymnasts — Corrie Lothrop and Olivia Smoliga — so that decision was not necessarily a bad one. It was made possible by the U.S.'s junior dominance, as they are led by the team and their individual all-around champions, Bexley and Rhian Miller. Per USA Gymnastics' rules, the U.S.'s gold medalists from the past two World Championships are ruled ineligible for the 2019 World Championships. [Photos: Edward Allen]Quantum neuromodulation of synaptic plasticity by hippocampal H-current. The effects of a protein inhibitor of glutamate-gated currents, 4-aminopyridine (4-AP), on the hippocampal synaptic potential were studied in the dentate gyrus of the medial septum and diagonal band of Broca and hippocampus, respectively. The synaptic potentials (SEPs) in these regions were elicited by afferent stimulation of the perforant pathway or the Schaffer collaterals. 4-AP abolished the depolarizing response to a single afferent stimulus, but did not alter steady state responses. When paired stimuli were given, there was an enhancement of the depolarization in the presence of 4-AP. The enhancement of the depolarization was not seen in the period without the depolarizing response to the second stimulus. These results

The union said that 41 workers have walked off the job in protest. The last-minute strike at the Inland Processing Center in Monroeville, about 35 miles north of Pittsburgh, comes as city officials push the Postal Service to move all of its employees to the city. "We ask (the office of labor) to take action here and really put pressure on the Postal Service," Pittsburgh Mayor Bill Peduto told Fox News on Wednesday. Peduto and some other local politicians have made similar demands of the postal service in past years but the agency has refused to budge, saying that moving workers away from Pittsburgh's suburban communities would hurt delivery and jeopardize a $2.8 billion mail-processing contract. The latest strike is the union's first in more than 15 years, according to its president, Mark Dimondstein. Dimondstein told The Associated Press that the union wants the Trump administration to
