Game is little bit confusing, especially at first but it's easy to get into the flow as the story moves forward.Game "Border of her Heart" Gameplay: 9/10 Conclusion If you like fantasy, yuri and just fans, this game is a good to consider. As of today I gave the game 10/10 for gameplay, 10/10 for visual, 9/10 for sound and 9/10 for story. That's around a 91% for the overall score. All in all, "Border of her Heart" is a cute game. :) For me this game is worth $ 1. That's all. , Pinball Review By Viva Games on September 3, 2009 As a young boy, David Malzbie spent many school holidays pestering his babysitter, his grandmother, his parents, and his schoolmates to play his favorite pinball game: Labyrinth. The game arrived as a packaged set featuring every table, every piece of artwork, every graphics facette, every track, and every sound. The game played like a dream and today that dream lives on as Malzbie's award-winning collection of pinball machines. While the public line of Alpine View has been available since 1996, Malzbie set out about three years ago to retrofit pinball cabinets to each of the 33 tables in his collection. Each used model represents a different era in pinball history, with the oldest being Solid Smoke from Whiz Your Way, '60s era, in 1981. You might think that it would have been the easiest part of the job but retrofitting cabinets for 33 separate games is quite a undertaking. That was the lesson learned during the experience Malzbie had with his first 29 games. What's an Arcade? I visited with David and his wife Dara in their home in Virginia, as they have been going at it for nearly a year now. At that point, Malzbie had already completed two of the 33 games and he was more than ready to show off his art form in action. He showed me "The Construction" of the game. This is what typically happens to cabinets during the retrofit process. While the graphics detail is usually not in great shape, he does a great job, though sometimes the development board is hopelessly hosed. David didn't seem to have finished much ground this day; he was helping his partner Dara with a 100's of (or more) miscellaneous items in their new motorhome. Let's get down to business. David began by telling me about the cabinets. They use a standard Wint-O-Lator base cabinet, with the exception of the RE-Button that was mounted in a side hole at the beginning of the decade. Malzbie operates exclusively with an Allen Bradley development board, named the Juicy 360. The Juicy boasts an amazing amount of memory, a whopping 7kb, and it packs two 3D graphics chips. They powered by a parallel port interface that works in concert with the onboard game board. The 28
