THE 1st FREEBIE FOR GETTING DRIVING LICENCE! Drivers Licences is a South African website, and not a UK based one. The owner of this site is not affiliated to the South African government. Please be informed that their are both CAPS AND NON CAPS spelling. This website is run by people with a Driving License from their own country. The South African RACSA disclaims any connection with the website and/or information on the website. Remember that each state has their own rules and regulations about how your student may actually apply for their learner's licence. Check with your local education department for details. FOR A VARIETY OF NEW SIMPLE AND COMPREHENSIVE RULES FOR BOTH CLERKS AND MALAMUTE OWNERS! Reiki is a Japanese word meaning: "Universal Life Energy". Jusher is a South African Malamute word meaning: "Jasus". Now, this is a story about a puppy named Jasus. Jasus was a lazy, uncoordinated, overweight puppy who just wanted to be left alone. His owner didn't care if he was somewhere, just as long as he was not in his house. But one day, a new girl moved into the neighbourhood, and she saw Jasus around the neighbourhood and gave him a kind smile. To her surprise, he didn't bark at her, he didn't act suspicious of her, and he didn't growl at her. She became intrigued. She approached the owner of Jasus and told him that she wanted to try to win Jasus to the cause. The owner didn't like the new girl, and he didn't want her to try to claim his puppy. So the owner took Jasus away from the new girl. Then he drugged Jasus, tied him up in a sack, and took him to a remote location where he had already prepared a special purpose-built shack in which he planned to kill him. But when the owner came back, he found his puppy to be tied up in the sack. And he was surprised to see that Jasus was awake, and he was very aware of his situation. So he gave Jasus food, and he untied him and put him into a crate.
