Serial Number For Duplicate Email Remover \V\TOP**

Hello, I'm really sorry for the delay in answering your email. Unfortunately, I cannot offer an explanation. Our internal process for analyzing these issues is well-defined and I need to look into it. Therefore I'd like to ask you to please find a solution yourself or ask other users for assistance to recreate the issue. As I told you we work with a large and growing user base, hence we cannot fix all tickets on our own. So to start the most rudimentary is to highlight all duplicate values and to use CTRL and Cmd + Delete to remove them all. But this is slow and we may have a few thousand records. If you have several thousand records with duplicate values to delete, this is a very tedious job. What is needed is a solution that can be applied to the entire spreadsheet in one procedure. A command which would work on a large number of cells that contain duplicate values. The first thing to do is locate the duplicate values using this expression in the formula bar: When you see that your duplicate cells have been removed, the value in column H will appear in all rows. Now all you need to do is to repeat this procedure for your duplicate value columns. To do this, please apply the following formula to the cells containing duplicate values: hi, i have several thousand of emails in column a and a few thousand duplicates in column b. i am trying to delete the duplicates but the way i have been doing it doesn't work. i am using this formula: =if(match(a1,$b$1:$b$1000,0)>0,a1,"") but i am ending up with an error message: #n/a. i have a list of around 1000 emails in column a. column b contains the serial number for each email. i would like to remove duplicate emails. i have tried creating a formula that would look at the previous row and would only display a value if there was a different serial number in the previous row. unfortunately, the formula i have created has not been working, and i can't figure out why. any help is appreciated.
